OLD SHOOTING IRON FATAL TO BAD MAN

Bud Ballew Clung to His 'Fanning .45,' and Texan's Automatic Cut Him Down.

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., May 6 (Associated Press).—J. W. McCormick, Chief of Police here less than a month, was famous here to-day, for yesterday he matched speed on the draw with D. M. (Bud) Ballew, one of the few remaining typical old time peace officers of the Southwest, a man with at least eight notches on his gun and known for his adroit handling of a straight razor, and Ballew died with his boots on, just as he repeatedly had predicted he would. Ballew's old style, single action .45 was only half drawn from its holster when his body fell with five steel jacketed bullets fired from a newer model arm by a man trained for years in the Texas Rangers.

Ballew, until a few weeks ago a deputy sheriff of Carter county, Oklahoma, gun fighter extraordinary, and in private life a wealthy stockman, came to Wichita Falls to act as judge in the annual Southwestern roundup.

In his cups Ballew reverted to the bad man type and Chief McCormick yesterday feared such an outbreak, he said. Within the last fortnight Ballew on two occasions had shot up small Oklahoma towns in daylight.

Word came to the chief that Ballew was drinking and might start trouble. The officer went to a soft drink parlor, observed Ballew, and, tapping him on the shoulder, charged him with drunkenness and demanded he hand over his pistol. Ballew turned half about with the remark: "Hell, you're out o' luck." The chief said the Oklahoman reached for a pistol, and, beating him to the draw, the chief fired from the hip. Five bullets hit Ballew, two from behind, one of them penetrating the brain. He died instantly. Ballew was 45 years old.

McCormick's record as an officer is something of a contrast to that of Ballew. He has small reputation as a "gun man" and this was his first "killing." He served with the Rangers when war threatened between Texas and Oklahoma claimants to oil lands to the Red River bed two years ago. As a result of his work in this section he was selected as chief of police for Wichita Falls less than a month ago.

ANDREWS, Okla., May 6 (Associated Press).—Buck Garrett, former Sheriff and Bud Ballew's old chief, went to-day when he viewed the body of the slain man.

Garrett, after inspecting the body of his lieutenant, who several times saved his life in gun fights, declared Bud was murdered.

"He didn't have a chance," said Garrett. "Five shots, and all from the back," former Sheriff Garrett said shaking his head.

Garrett said the law should be allowed to take its course in the case and indicated no feud would arise across the border as the result of the slaying. Ballew always told his friends he wanted "to pass out with his boots on." Bud—he was always called Bud and refused to give his Christian name—was as picturesque in person as were his deeds.

The first thing that attracted attention was his shock of curly red hair. He was a big man, standing 5 feet 11 inches from the Governor of Oklahoma which belied his character. He wore a high wide brimmed hat colored hat and clung to high cowboots, despite the fact that he drove a motor car much of the time in recent years. He was a horseman, as good as any in this country, where spirited Western ponies prevail. Bud liked diamonds, and always wore a big flashing stone in his tie.

While Bud usually wore two guns strapped to him, he was a one gun man. Ballew never became accustomed to what he termed the new fangled automatic revolvers, but depended on a single action .45 pistol. He "fanned" the hammer as he drew and discharged each shot.

Ballew is said to have carried a comb. He wore a cherubic expression, authorizing him to bear arms as an officer of an anti-motor car theft association formed by Garrett after his ouster several months ago as Sheriff.

KILLS PROFESSOR, COMMITS SUICIDE

University of South Carolina Shootings Follow Threats Against Its President.

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 6.—After threatening to shoot Dr. W. S. Currell, president of the University of South Carolina, Ben Hale, university marshal, to-day shot and killed Prof. M. Goode Homes of the faculty of the school of engineering and shot himself to death.

The shootings occurred in the university treasurer's office and in the presence of Dr. Currell, who after the shooting issued a statement saying that for a long time there had been bitter feeling between Prof. Homes and Marshal Hale growing out of their conflicting duties at the university. Dr. Currell said that Marshal Hale, enraged, asked a stenographer to leave, began shooting indiscriminately about the treasurer's office, and then, shouting "You are responsible for this," pointed his pistol at the head of the president. Hale, however, a minute later, turned his weapon on Prof. Homes and shot him, and then shot himself.

The double tragedy became known when W. T. Holland, a student, heard shots while passing the university offices. He entered the building, jumped over an iron railing, and found the bodies of Hale and Prof. Homes on the floor. A pistol was lying near Hale, whose chest had been pierced by a bullet. Later it was ascertained that President Currell was a witness. Prof. Homes was widely known as an engineering authority.

PROBATION FOR YEAR FOR DODGE AND EARL

KALAMAZOO, May 6 (Associated Press).—John Duval Dodge, young Detroit millionaire, and Rex Earl of Kalamazoo were placed on probation for one year when they appeared before Circuit Judge Welmer to-day for sentence following their conviction on a charge of illegal possession and transportation of liquor.

Judge Welmer announced the usual terms of probation will be rigidly enforced, chief of these being that the respondents shall "contribute from his earnings for the support of those dependent upon him."

Dodge also was directed to pay $500 probationary fine and reimburse the county treasury for the expense incurred in prosecuting the case against him, the amount being $500. Earl was directed to pay a fine of $100 within ninety days in addition to the year's probation.

FAKE INDIAN CHIEF FACES DEPORTATION

Immigration Officials Get After Venezuelan Held as Perjuror.

Lionel James, 25-year-old Venezuelan, who made a living selling fake Indian leather goods and lecturing under the name of "Chief Red Wing of the Ojibways" until he was arrested Friday night on a charge of perjury following investigation by the Bureau of Indian Affairs, probably will be deported as quickly as the immigration machinery can handle his case.

It was said in Police Headquarters yesterday that James admitted coming into this country May 8, 1921, on a steamship of the Atlantic Line, which he deserted. He worked his way over from London as a cattle feeder and brushed up on his Indian lore during the hours when the cattle did not need tending. He was held yesterday in $5,000 bail for examination to-morrow when arraigned before Magistrate Brough in Jefferson Market Court. The charge against him is perjury, because he testified on April 19, when his wife had him brought into court, that he was a full blooded Indian. Inspector James of the Immigration Bureau, however, will be on hand when James is brought up to-morrow and efforts will be made to rush through his deportation.

Miss Marian Stehlik, the designer who married James on March 8 under the impression he was a real Indian, said last night she would seek an annulment on once.

Miss Stehlik came here ten years ago from Bohemia and now owns a designing shop of her own in 385 Fifth avenue. She had saved up several hundred dollars, when James, as "Red Wing," came along and started all manner of trouble for her. She lived with him only a month and then moved to 28 West Forty-sixth street, where she lives now. She said she was first attracted to him when he came into her place of business, showed her some Indian goods and told her of his ambitions to help the "starving Ojibways."

"The trouble with a woman," said Miss Stehlik, "is that she is too soft. I felt sorry for the Ojibways and thought Red Wing was a wonderful man to think of doing that work for them. So I gave him money and helped him all I could. Then in March we were married. He treated me badly. But even so, for a long time I had confidence in him, because everybody else believed he was the real thing. And when I began hearing little things about him I wouldn't believe them. Finally, though, I caught him in a few lies and everything was all off."

A New Presentation of

HAND-MADE FRENCH COTTON FROCKS

Has not madame a natural penchant for having hand-made Paris frocks? And why should she not have them, especially when these prices are so low? A colorful array is on display in the

Louis XVI Salon

Dainty Summery frocks individually created by the skilful fingers of the true Parisian. That unmistakable French air, unique hand embroidery and cleverly executed hand-drawn work pay tribute to her handicraft, while the sheer, fairylike fabrics proclaim in no uncertain manner their illustrious origin.

A Few of the Offerings:

This delightful Summery frock is unquestionably a French creation, for it is developed in Crepe Roumays! And in its simplicity lies its loveliness, for it is straight of line, and its only decoration is the hand-drawn work and narrow sash.

A glance, and one is instantly captured—for this intriguing model is fashioned of Crepe Roumays—the very newest of French fabrics. Amusing little beads of novel construction adorn this frock very effectively, for the hand-embroidery which achieves an unusually distinctive decorative effect holds the beads in place. A touch of contrasting color is added by outlining the embroidery motif.

Smart New Summertime Dresses

59.50

Newness and individuality are at once discerned in this rather dignified dress of Crepe Romain. At first glance it appears sleeveless, though closer inspection reveals that the flowing knee length side panels, ingeniously held together at the shoulder with lattice work, serve the purpose of sleeves in an effective manner. Self-covered buttons encrusted with beads trim the girle.

When an afternoon frock is fashioned of Silk Crepe Romain and is elaborately decorated with a combination of brilliantly-colored bead and silk embroidery, the result is quite distinctive—particularly so when the embroidery is so decidedly Russian in its motif. The neckline is bateau, of course, and the narrow sash ties at the side.

This latest arrival in the sports apparel field is a gracefully simple affair of white knitted fibre silk. It is, however, daintily original in its decorative effect, for a unique Jacquard design of exotic coloring is knitted into the fabric. The waistline, covered with self material sash, is elastic, permitting freedom of action for the sports-loving woman.

Ermine Trimmed Summer Capes

69.50

For the cool evenings of early Summer, this smart cape of Silk Canton crepe with decidedly novel puffed collar of Ermine fur lends just that touch of friendly warmth one desires, yet it is unusually soft and lightsome in keeping with madame's dainty attire. The silk crepe lining enriches its beauty.

A double Ermine fur collar entwined about one's neck atop of such a unique cape as this is a mark of distinction indeed. And it is so convenient too—just the thing for when one takes a little motor trip or spends the evening along shore. It is delightfully fashioned of Silk Canton crepe and beautifully silk crepe lined.

A twist and a turn and madame's attire is instantly changed, for this handsome cape of Silk Crepe Nippon with luxurious Ermine fur stand-up collar may be worn either to reveal or conceal the Ermine fur border down front on both sides. It should be of particular interest to the woman who has numerous engagements on her social calendar.
